III. Reading

Read the sports stories. Are the sentences about Jesse Owens (O), Billie Jean King (K) or both (B)?

Jesse Owens

Owens was a black American athlete, born in 1913 in Alabama. He became a sports legend for two reasons. He was a brilliant runner, but he also competed in the Berlin Olympics in 1936. In those days, black people didn't have the same rights as white people. The organisers wanted white athletes to win the prizes but Owens surprised everyone. He won four Olympic gold medals and broke three world records. After the Olympics, Owens returned to the United States and stopped running in competitions. He died in 1980 but even today people believe that he helped to change the world.

Billie Jean King

King is an American female tennis player, born in 1943. She played in matches and competitions between 1959 and 1990. She became famous when she won the women's doubles at Wimbledon in 1961 at the age of seventeen. She was also famous for her opinions on women's rights. She wanted people to understand that women and men are equal. So she played in a match with well-known tennis player, Bobby Riggs. He was famous for his negative opinions about women and women's tennis. King won the match easily and more than 50 million people watched it. She still fights for women's rights today.

1. They are from the United States. O/K/B
